HEARTBREAKING FINALE
TO A WONDERFUL SEASON

The Telstar High School Field Hockey Team Monday came up one goal short of a perfect season. The Rebels lost 2-1 to Hall-Dale in the state Class C Championship game, played in Lewiston. All the scoring took place in the first half. Although Telstar dominated play in the second half, the Rebels were unable to put the ball in the cage. The Western Class C champs finished their season with a 17-1 record. Above, fans had little to cheer about as the clock ticked down in the waning moments of the second half. Right, coaches Sheri Head and Gail Wight hug players Jessie Wight and Malinda Gilbert.

Fuel-oil price drying up firewood supply

By ALISON ALOISIO

Get your wood yet? If not, you might be out of luck.

The high price of heating oil this fall has increased the demand for firewood, and it's getting harder and harder to find.

"We've run out of dry wood," said one local firewood dealer, who asked to remain anonymous to avoid more phone calls. "We usually have 50 or 60 cords available this time of year."

He sells a total of about 100 cords a year, and said demand "took off" late in the summer when rumors of higher oil prices started circulating.

"But I've turned down more people for dry wood than usual. I've had a lot of people call who never called before," he said.

Wood dealer George Crockett of West Bethel sees the weather of recent seasons compounding the supply problem.

"Last year you couldn't hardly give firewood away," he said. "People had all they needed because the previous two winters were mild. Then they used it up last winter."

Crockett has sold out his 75 cords of dry wood, but was looking to get out of the business anyway, he said.

> 'I've had a lot of people call who never called before.'

> ALAN FLEET
> local wood dealer

The rumors turned to reality, as one local oil dealer's price stood at $1.049 a gallon last week. It has since dropped to $.999, but is still up nearly 50 percent over last year's price of $.759.

Patrick Moore of Newry also sells firewood, about 50 cords a year. He, too, is out of dry wood, at a time of year when he usually still has it available.

Alan Fleet, also of Newry, deals in green wood, which most people buy a year ahead. Demand for his wood, therefore, is less susceptible to immediate conditions.

Dave Graiver of West Paris sells about 2,000 cords of dry wood a year. He still has plenty of wood, but isn't advertising as he did in years past.

Demand, he said, is up about 20 percent this year. "It had been slower for five or six years, because oil was cheap," he said.

Most of the dealers' dry wood prices were $110-$120 a cord -- the same as they were last year, they said. Crockett sold his for $95 a cord.

Area voters went with the tide in national and statewide elections last week, but they showed themselves a little more Republican than their fellow Mainers, and a little less willing to have the government tell them -- or tell paper companies -- how to manage their land.

The presidential election was as lopsided here as elsewhere, with Bill Clinton easily defeating Republican challenger Bob Dole.

Reform Party candidate Ross Perot received 14 percent of the vote statewide; Green Party candidate Ralph Nader received 2 percent. Local voters opted for the two alternative-party candidates in roughly similar levels.

In the contest to fill the seat of retiring U.S. Senator Bill Cohen, Republican Susan Collins outpolled Democrat Joseph Brennan in all local towns but Albany.

Collins won the seat with a statewide margin of approximately 4 percent. (But many people who followed the results Tuesday evening went to bed thinking Brennan was on his way to victory -- as was being predicted by an exit poll conducted by National Public Radio).

John Rensenbrink, the senatorial candidate of the Green Party, received less than 5 percent of the local and statewide vote. (The poor showing by Rensenbrink and Nader threatens the Greens' status as an officially recognized political party in Maine. The state and the party are expected to battle the matter out in court.)

The race for the Second District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives was no contest. Incumbent Democrat John Baldacci trounced Republican challenger John Young by a margin of nearly 3 to 1.

State, county races

Last week's election saw the Maine Democrats retake control of the State House and Senate -- but you wouldn't have predicted that from results here, where all local House and Senate seats stayed Republican, most by healthy margins.

In Senate District 24, Republican Norm Perkins of Hanover defeated challenger Pamela Lothrop of Rumford by a vote of 9,242 to 7,588.

In House District 68, Republican Al Barth of Bethel bested Democratic challenger Rockie Graham of Newry by a margin of more than 2 to 1 (2,983 to 1,363).

In other nearby House races, incumbent Republicans Bob Cameron

Newry Bowling Gang just keeps rolling along

• But hold on to those dentures

By ALISON ALOISIO

"We're still as lousy as we were in the 1970s," said Betsy Clark.

The members of the Newry Bowling Gang are now in their own 70s, on average. But despite Clark's claim, they post scores many younger bowlers would envy.

The group of six to eight women has bowled candlepins weekly at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford for 25 years. Their exploits are chronicled regularly in member Gil Seeley's North Newry column of The Citizen.

Karlene Bachelder, 68, is a charter gang member. She said the bowling outing started as entertainment for the mothers of young children.

"I used to bring my son with me when he was about three," she said.

The children are grown now. But the gang continued on, with members coming and going over time.

Last week, a half dozen longtimers were out to bowl their usual three strings. Seeley, the senior member of the group, is 89. Her scores for three strings: 86, 76, 88.

Clark -- the youngest member at 62 -- bowled one score of 108, and Bachelder had a 94.

Age has taken its toll on consistency, as demonstrated by some scores in the 40s. But therein lie the best stories.

"I remember one time Karlene threw the ball and it ended up in the next lane," said Clark. "It knocked quite a few pins down, too. We wouldn't let her count it, though."

On another occasion, it was Bachelder -- not the ball -- that ended up in the wrong place.

"I don't know what happened. The next thing I knew I was flat on

DID YOU KNOW?

To the Editor:

Bethel's last Comprehensive Plan was completed in 1986. That plan is now totally useless in guiding the town's future direction. It's like a ship without a compass. A car without a steering wheel. Or a Town without any idea of where it wants to be in 10 years. We need a new one.

The Bethel Planning Board and the Comprehensive Plan Committee all unanimously recommend that the town seek a state grant to complete a new comprehensive plan.

What can you do? Simple, three things:

1) Let your selectperson know how you feel. Your elected officials are responsible to you as their constituents, not their personal agendas. Go to the public hearing on this issue Nov. 13 at Crescent Park.

2) Get involved. The Bethel Plan will be your plan. It will require input and direction from all of us. If you are concerned that it may include something you don't like, participate. Call a committee member, the Town Office, or come to the meetings. It's your plan and it should reflect you.

3) Vote to support the request for a grant. The town referendum is coming up on Dec. 16. Be there and support your fellow citizens who are working hard to keep Bethel the great place it is to work, play and be proud.

We need your help.

CRAFT FAIR THANKS

To the Editor:

Thank you to all who helped to make our 11th Annual Crescent Park School Craft Fair a huge success once again! Many people bought or browsed from the wide selection of crafts made by crafters set up in the cafeteria, gymnasium and hallways of Crescent Park School. Our own C.P.S. students also made crafts for the occasion.

Parents, teachers and students certainly played an important part in the success of this event. The food donated to the food tables was abundant and tasty. Student council members did a fine job at tending the lunch tables with the help of their chairperson, Ellen Greeke and other adult volunteers. Teachers did a fantastic job in selecting crafts to be made with the students. A special thank you to Pattie Parsons, Marilyn Swan and Caroline Gould for the tremendous help given on behalf of our popular raffle table. Also, we appreciate Suzanne Howe and Kelly Vassels' help in making posters for the occasion.

Many volunteers, including teachers, donated their time Saturday morning and recreational the day. Volunteers could be found passing lines in the hallways, helping with the raffles, overseeing the selling of crafts made by our C.P.S. students.

Much gratitude is due the help from Ellen Greeke, Judy Eldridge, Diane White, Jane and Peter Kaiser at the end of the day. We calculated the amount of $2,000 raised for our school.

A sincere thank you to the following businesses who so graciously helped to support the Crescent Park School: Northeast Bank, Fred's Place, Bethel Citizen, Mr. Mom, Bethel Barn Rubber, #1 Video, [illegible] School Store, The Village Sampler, Miss Sue's Dance, Maine Line Products, Bear Claw Video, Cafe La Crema, Emerald Photo, [illegible] Main Street Laundry, Inc., Inn, The Toy Shop, Wild [illegible], Bethel Variety, Bethel N. HALLOWEEN FUN NIGHT THANKS

To the Editor:

[illegible] would like to take this opportunity to thank the Crescent Park [illegible] for sponsoring the Fourth annual Halloween Fun Night on Thursday, [illegible] Night at the Crescent Park School last Thursday. This [illegible] was enjoyed by the children of the community. Well over [illegible] people attended Crescent Park and took [illegible] from [illegible] Crescent Park staff members, [illegible] and Brownie troop leaders. Over 80 volunteers level and [illegible] were involved with collecting [illegible] for the [illegible] made possible by the [illegible] PTA. Special thanks go to [illegible] for [illegible] and to Bethel Pharmacy for [illegible] Halloween Fun Night is [illegible] Parent Teacher Association, [illegible] to coordinate a [illegible] with all school parents' organizations in the [illegible] Pantry in preparation for [illegible]

[illegible] will start again for sponsored Breakfast with Santa [illegible] Hundreds of children last year. The intent [illegible] is that success and make this year's program even [illegible]

[illegible] supported by good people. We are fortunate to have [illegible] willing to donate time and effort to help make the Crescent Park [illegible] a special place for children to grow and learn. Special thanks go to this year's co-presidents, Kate Slattery and Susan Gordon. Both of these ladies can be seen at almost any time throughout the week volunteering their efforts at Crescent Park, planning or preparing for the many events that they help coordinate.

The Crescent Park School's Parent Teachers Association is approaching its highest membership ever. Membership is not restricted to just parents or teachers, interested citizens in the community or businesses may also join to show their support for the school for a very nominal fee. Anyone interested in becoming a member should contact the Crescent Park School office at 824-2839.

Local river project recognized

The Androscoggin River Watershed Pollution Prevention Project was recently recognized by the National Parks Service and Appalachian Mountain Club (AMC) as an outstanding example of river conservation and stewardship in New England.

An October report published jointly by the Park Service and the AMC praised the Androscoggin project for catalyzing clean-up efforts by teams of municipal officials, water treatment plant operators and local citizens from 18 Maine communities.

"Key aspect of the Pollution Prevention Project is its primary focus on local communities," states the report, which is entitled, "Restoring Our Watersheds: An Assessment of River Stewardship in New England and New York."

The Androscoggin project's river stewardship activities include a source-to-sea canoe trip and a river clean-up -- both of which involve many sectors of the community. Project members are in the process of painting "no dumping" warnings adjacent to storm drains that may wash into the river, and organizing a household hazardous waste clean-up day.

The Androscoggin project is among eight model programs singled out in the report, which was recently distributed to public officials and groups working toward river and watershed conservation throughout the region. It summarizes two years of research with river stewardship experts in the six New England states and New York.

"The common thread among these programs is their ability to bridge the gap between environmental and community issues," said the report's author, AMC Rivers and Greenways Conservation Specialist Peter Donahue. "The report discovered that people are interested in the environmental health of rivers, as well as their recreational value. We need to make the environment and water quality issues part of a whole range of community-wide issues, and develop partnerships with businesses, laborers, religious groups, chambers of commerce, and economic development organizations."

"This report provides an important snapshot of contemporary river protection in the Northeast," said Park Service Rivers Program Coordinator Jamie Fosburgh. "The focus on programs that stimulate and support citizen action reflects the 'state of the art' in river and watershed conservation."

Here Comes the Donkey Parade

By MIKE BROWN

Well, the Democrats have done it, or rather the Republicans have undone it. The Maine Legislature has a D-majority. Coupled to an incumbent governor who is really a Democrat wrapped in a populist independent robe, the next two years for minority legislative Republicans will be tough sledding ahead on the hills of liberal bills.

It was not so much Democratic campaign expertise that rolled the R's into the minority seats, but rather the ineptness of the State Republican Party and the split Senate Republican fiasco in the Monks-Hathaway June primary.

Voters salt those bad checks away in their ballot memory bank. In this case, if the Senate Republicans couldn't handle a primary doomsday campaign issue more competently, then why should they run the Senate for two more years?

The Senate R's never got their political act together. Perhaps it was being unaccustomed to leadership after a long spell as a paranoid minority. It takes time to learn the intricacies of political leadership. But the Senate R's frequently held secret caucuses while the media cooled their agitated pens on outside benches.

That was no way to further GOP political initiatives via the public messengers of State House goings-on. The secret caucuses could be held, said the R's, because an informal opinion of the attorney general said they could. This caucus secretiveness occurring in the State House concerning the people's business can be halted by a simple legislative procedure: the legislative council adopting a rule forbidding them.

The House R's also had problems. One fatal mistake was that when the R's were within one vote of majority status, it's leader Walt Whitcomb settled for a meaningless offer of Speaker Dan Gwadosky for equality in committee membership. Whitcomb should have aggressively gone for broke calling for a new speaker election for the R's were on a roll. But he did not. Gwadosky continued in power, the few token committee seats made not a whit of difference and the House R's, although later to gain seat parity, had lost leadership clout.

With the recent election the House division now is 81 D's, 69 R's and one Independent, Belinda Geary. There may be five recounts but Democratic majority is assured for the next two years.

In the Senate, the D's will have 19 seats, the Republicans 15 and there is one Independent, Jill Goldthwait.

With a D-legislative majority, the change is dramatic. The D's will elect all constitutional officers, and not only appoint both House and Senate joint standing committee chairs but also the majority numbers. The D's will also control by majority the ten-member legislative council.

About the only legislative option left for R's is a spoiler in that budgets and a few other issues require a two-thirds vote.

What will be most interesting will be the races for minority and majority leadership. (Party caucus dates are: Senate D's, not announced at this writing; Senate R's, Nov. 22; House D's, Nov. 16; House R's, Nov. 21.)

D-senator and current minority leader Mark Lawrence said he is a candidate for Senate President. He expects competition from D-senators, Susan Longley and Mike Michaud. He also expects Sen. Chellie Pingree to run for Senate majority leader.

One of the many interesting side notes of the election is that former speaker and challenger of term limits, John Martin, amazingly lost his write-in campaign in his Eagle Lake fiefdom. However, the Maine State House may not have seen the last of Mr. Martin. If Mike Michaud becomes Senate President, it is entirely possible that his longtime friend and mentor could become either Senate Secretary or the presidency's chief of staff.

About the only confirmed candidate for Senate R-minority leadership is the current majority leader Leo Kieffer, but expect several more.

Over in the House D-Rep. Libby Mitchell drools for the first time woman's speakership to replace term-limited Dan Gwadosky (a shoo-in for secretary of state). House Clerk Joe Mayo will keep his job as will clerk and speaker staffs including a few recalled from the D-state party apparatus. The D-floor leader positions are up for grabs.

For House minority leadership, Joe Carleton, currently assistant leader, is a candidate but he will have competition -- probably Jim Donnelly from Presque Isle.

And the big-timbered-bucks forestry referendum? Gov. King and friends pompously spent close to $7 million and effectively lost by not getting 50 percent for 2B. As a legislative bill, the infamous 2B dangles and strangles swinging in the political wind and will not come up for a vote before next June. By that time the new legislature will surely amend and condemn it to death.

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

Margaret Joy Tibbetts spoke on early education in Bethel from the 1970s to the middle of the 19th century at the Nov. 7 meeting of the Bethel Historical Society in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. The presentation was one in a continuing series of programs during this bicentennial year dealing with history of Bethel.

In her remarks about early education, Miss Tibbetts reminded the audience of the Puritan emphasis on education from New England's earliest days. Calvinist doctrine stressed individual responsibility for salvation and the concomitant necessity for each person to be able to read the Bible. As a result of this influence, a 1642 Act imposing fines for the neglect of children was soon followed by the so-called "Deluder Satan" Act of 1647, the first law enacted in America for the support of public education. She observed that Bethel was in a particularly good position to organize and operate good public schools, since a number of ministers and other professional men took such an active interest in them. Her conclusion was that despite the primitive facilities and the lack of materials, students attending schools in Bethel during this era received a good education.

During the business portion of the meeting, Society President Walter Hatch announced that the next monthly meeting would be held on Dec. 5 and feature the annual "Christmas with the Masons." The "Artifact of the Month" was announced as a framed photograph of a large tree with a woman in a carriage underneath it. The label on the back reads as follows: "27 feet in circumference, 5 feet from ground, was nearly 11 feet in diameter, one way as not round. Considered the largest elm in Maine when I made the picture, 1896. Intervale of Horatio N. Upton farm, Mayville, Bethel, Maine. E.T.G."

Crime Watch meeting postponed

BETHEL--The second meeting of the Bethel Neighborhood Crime Watch has been postponed from tonight (Wednesday) to a date to be announced.

Westbrook, Bethel incidents related?

BETHEL--An incident in Westbrook Thursday may be related to an attempted strong-arm robbery in Bethel last Wednesday, according to police. In the Bethel incident, Mary Keniston, 75, was approached on Mill Hill by a man in a blue pickup truck. He grabbed her by the jacket and started to drive away -- knocking her to the ground -- after unsuccessfully trying to take away a money bag she was carrying. In Westbrook, a man in a blue pickup approached a woman in her 80s at her door and asked to use her phone. He pushed her down the stairs and took her purse.

Airport budget approved

BETHEL--Selectmen last week approved a budget of $134,115 for the Bethel Airport Authority. Much of the budget is funded by federal and state grant money for specific projects, including the airport master plan and a paving project. The balance is financed by revenue generated by the airport and the Bethel Industrial Park.

Hiker late, but not lost

GRAFTON NOTCH--An overdue hiker showed up on his own Monday in Grafton Notch as search and rescue plans were being made. The hiker, Gary Jenkins of Boothbay Harbor, was reported to be 24 hours overdue, according to Cindy Brown of Mahoosuc Mountain Rescue. MMR and the Warden Service were coordinating rescue efforts at about 11 a.m. when Jenkins arrived in a parking lot in Grafton Notch State Park, Brown said. He had left on a hike Friday, and was expected to return Sunday. Icy conditions at higher elevations slowed his progress, however.

Hunting camp destroyed by fire

ANDOVER--A fire, apparently started by an overheated woodstove, destroyed a hunting cabin on the South Arm Road Thursday. The owner, Mike Desjardins of Saco, was hunting with friends when the fire broke out, according to Fire Chief Ken Dixon. The blaze was reported by neighbors, but the 16-by-20-foot cabin was fully involved when firefighters arrived. The fire also damaged a nearby pickup truck. The cabin was not insured.

AWD back to well plan

ANDOVER--Water district trustees decided last week to research sites for a drilled well, after voting unanimously to abandon plans to install a sand filtration system at the Stony Brook Reservoir. The trustees -- chairman Anne Glazier, Laurie Vogt-Barter and Ron Wells -- met Thursday with Maine Rural Water District Association representatives who will act as consultants in solving water district problems. The district has been directed by the Environmental Protection Agency to comply with the Safe Drinking Water Act.

SAD17 approves referendum budget

PARIS--SAD17 voters approved changing the annual budget vote from a public meeting to private balloting in the eight towns. The vote was 5,950 to 3,434. Each town favored passage. The tally in West Paris was 499 in favor and 201 opposed.

Police called to jail incident

PARIS--Police from three towns and the Sheriff's Department were called in to help corrections officers quell a disturbance among four inmates at the Oxford County Jail last week. Two of the inmates -- Michael Brine, 21, and Michael Everett, 18 -- are awaiting trial on charges of attempted murder in the August stabbing of Leroy Howard, 19. Howard was also involved in the incident. One of the inmates grabbed a stick and started banging it on doors and windows, then broke it on a table before being subdued. No one was injured, according to chief deputy Jim Davis. Davis said other police were called in to make a strong show of force at the beginning of the disturbance, rather than wait until it possibly escalated.

90 percent of hunters get moose

GREENVILLE--Maine's 16th annual moose harvest went well, according to the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. Although the final harvest figures are not yet complete, the latest total of 1,367 registered moose is a record, putting the hunter success ratio over 90 percent. More than 80 percent of the moose registered this year were bulls. A large bull that weighed more than 1,200 pounds was registered in Ft. Kent. The state record is 1,330. Stepped-up enforcement by the Maine Warden Service resulted in 10 felony arrests of moose hunters. There were a number of double kills, according to deputy chief warden Major Dan Tourtelotte. Meat from those kills was turned over to soup kitchens.

Nobleboro tire site cleaned up

AUGUSTA--Private contractors have removed more than 6,000 tons of tires and tire shreds from a major stockpile in Nobleboro. The project is the first state clean-up funded by legislative allocation. The effort reduced the size of the stockpile by about 35 percent. More than two-thirds of the material was processed and shipped for use as a cost-effective substitute fuel for industrial boilers. Most of the balance was processed and used as lightweight fill for the Androscoggin Bridge construction project in Topsham. About 140 tons had to be deposited in a secure landfill in Hampden. The total cost was approximately $430,000.

Donate old cars to kidney cause

PORTLAND--Used cars (running or not) may be donated to the National Kidney Foundation of Maine's Kidney Cars Program. Funds from the cars are used to benefit kidney patients. Pickup of cars can be arranged, and some car donors may qualify for a tax deduction. Call 1-800-488-CARS for more information.

Scholarships for chem-free students

PORTLAND--Maine students who stay off drugs and alcohol are eligible for scholarship money worth $12,000, in a new scholarship program recently announce by the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Maine and Maine Educational Services. Three graduating seniors will be awarded the scholarships for the first time this spring. The scholarships will be $6,000, $4,000 and $2,000 respectively. The criteria for the scholarship is a graduating senior in Maine, in good academic standing, who has demonstrated his or her service to the community and has abstained from any use of drugs or alcohol. Interested students may contact their guidance office.

ASK A LAWYER

I was married in October 1993. In September 1994 my wife became pregnant. One month later, she told me she had experienced a miscarriage. I recently discovered that she had an abortion. Is there any law in Maine against a wife having an abortion without her husband's consent?

Presently, there is no law, in Maine or in any other state, which restricts a woman's right to have an abortion without consent of, or against the objections of, the father. This is considered a woman's right of privacy and has been recognized since the Supreme Court's landmark decision in Roe v. Wade in 1973. The Roe Court established the right of a woman to have an abortion, in the early stages of pregnancy (considered to be the first trimester of pregnancy), free of governmental interference. Before that time, in most jurisdictions, abortions were permissible, if at all, only to save the health or life of the mother.

Since the time of the Roe decision, there have been several attempts by husbands and/or fathers to prevent women from having abortions. In a 1974 Massachusetts case (Doe v. Doe), a plaintiff husband and father was held to be without standing to enjoin his wife and her doctor from proceeding with an abortion of the couple's child. In denying the father's claim, the court noted that any recognition by the State of a protected right in the father would raise serious constitutional questions after the abortion decisions made by the United States Supreme Court. It further noted that the law has not generally undertaken to interfere with the many delicate questions involved in the marriage relationship and since it would not order spouses to do "what is necessary to conceive a child or to prevent conception," it would likewise not interfere in the decision of a wife to have an abortion.

In Planned Parenthood of Missouri v. Danforth, a 1976 decision by the United States Supreme Court, the high Court found that a state-imposed requirement of spousal consent in a Missouri statute was an absolute obstacle to a woman's decision that Roe held to be constitutionally protected from such interference. In declaring that provision of the statute to be unconstitutional, the Court held that a state cannot regulate or proscribe abortion during the first stage of pregnancy, and authority to so regulate could not be delegated to anyone, even the pregnant woman's spouse.

More recently, in 1988, in another Supreme Court decision entitled Doe v. Smith, the Court found that a married man who was the biological father of another woman's unborn child was not entitled to an injunction prohibiting the unborn child's mother from obtaining an abortion. It found that the natural father's interest in the unborn fetus, although legitimate and apparently sincere, did not outweigh the mother's constitutionally protected right to abortion. The Court further expressed serious doubts about the availability of a federal remedy in view of the fact that the decision to obtain an abortion could be carried out without any action on the part of the state or state governmental subdivision during the first trimester of pregnancy. The Court made reference to its 1976 Danforth decision, noting that in order to require the mother to carry a child to term against her wishes, the father must demonstrate "clear and compelling reasons" justifying such actions. In weighing the interests of the father against the interests of the mother in that case, it found that the father's interests in preserving the life of the unborn fetus did not outweigh the mother's constitutional right to privacy.

In the absence of the Supreme Court overruling its decision in Roe v. Wade, a woman has an absolute right to terminate a pregnancy during the first trimester and a state does not have the constitutional power to require her to notify the father of her decision to abort. And, although the Court has suggested that there may be a situation where a father could demonstrate "clear and compelling reasons" which would outweigh that right, to date a woman's constitutionally protected right to decide whether or not to terminate her pregnancy outweighs the constitutionally protected right of a man to father children and enjoy the association of his offspring.

From the Bethel Police log:

Driver arrested for OAS, pot possession

On Nov. 11 at 9:24 p.m. a subject was stopped on Railroad St. for operating a motor vehicle without headlights at night. A check revealed he was under suspension in Maine and did not possess a valid license in Rhode Island. Derek C. Souve, 25, of Pawtucket, R.I., was arrested for operating after suspension. He was also summoned for possession of drug paraphernalia and civil possession of marijuana.

Saturday, Nov. 9

At 6 p.m. a caller from the Bethel Irving/Mainway reported a vehicle had departed the store toward Bethel. The driver and two occupants were reportedly very intoxicated. Attempts to locate the vehicle were unsuccessful.

Wednesday, Nov. 6

At 12 midnight the manager of Bethel Park Apartments requested that police tell a subject driving a vehicle registered to a Woodstock resident to stop using the laundry room at the apartment complex. The complainant said use of the room is restricted to people who live there.

At 5:15 p.m. a Bethel resident reported she had received numerous phone calls in which the caller said nothing but stayed on the line. She felt the caller was her ex-husband, with whom she was involved in a child-custody dispute.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

A REAL BRIDGE TO THE 21ST CENTURY
The Windy Valley Snowmobile Club recently completed construction of a suspension bridge across the Bear River in Newry. The 105-foot bridge, built on property owned by Ken Carson, was designed by engineer Jim Sysko. Materials and equipment were donated by Boise Cascade, the Bancroft Corporation, Rock of Ages Quarry and Frank Lowell. Volunteers who worked on the project are, front (from left): Leon Dunn, Ed Bennett, David Berry. Back: Owen Wight, Bill Wight, Jim Sysko, Rocky Freda. Other volunteers included John Gunther, Ed Powers, Bob Lowell and Lee Swan.

Election

of Rumford and Tom Winsor of Norway were easy victors.

In Senate District 25, Republican Rick Bennett of North Norway won by a wide margin over Democrat Brian Sessions of Norway.

Republican Dana Hanley of Paris, who had filled the Senate District 25 seat, was elected Oxford County judge of probate. Fellow Republican Freda Truman of Norway was elected County Treasurer.

No clearcut victory

There was no definitive winner in the hotly contested clearcut referendum.

Option 2A, the "Ban Clearcutting" proposal, drew 29 percent of the vote statewide. This was better than polls had predicted, but far short of the 50 percent required for the proposal to become law.

As expected, option 2B, the compromise "Compact for Maine's Forests," drew the most statewide support, but its 47-percent showing left it 3 percent short of the majority needed to become law.

Option 2C, "none of the above," received 23 percent of the statewide vote.

Locally, however, 2B also prevailed, but by a very narrow margin (1,674 to 1,634) over 2C.

In Gilead, Greenwood, West Paris and Woodstock, 2C outpolled 2B.

Option 2A, the clearcutting ban, received only 757 local votes -- less than half as many as either of the competing two options.

Because no option received a clear majority of the votes, the matter will go to another election, at which time 2B and 2C will battle it out head to head.

That election is not expected to take place until the next statewide election, probably in November 1997.

The remaining state referendum items, including the term-limits pledge and campaign finance reform, along with four bond issues, all passed easily, both here and statewide.

NOVA addition defeated

The proposed addition for the Northern Oxford Vocational Area was less fortunate, falling to defeat by an overall vote of 4,547 to 6,728.

All SAD44 towns voted against the proposal. The margins were as follows: Andover, 185-283; Bethel, 619-742; Gilead, 29-46; Greenwood, 180-216; Newry, 100-105; Upton, 11-19; Woodstock, 268-351.

Turnout high in Maine

Once again, Maine led the nation in voter turnout, with 64 percent of registered Maine voters turning out to cast their ballots.

Nationally, fewer then half the registered voters (48 percent) took the trouble to vote.

It was the smallest turnout in a presidential election since 1924, when Calvin Coolidge was elected.

Firewood

Less oil reserves

On the oil side of the heating-cost equation, C.N. Brown Co. spokesman John Pinto said the price increase is simply a question of supply and demand.

"It doesn't seem there are a great amount of reserves. If there's less, you pay more. We're paying more for it," he said.

C.N. Brown is the parent company of Ripley and Fletcher of Bethel.

Jack Brooks of Brooks Bros., Inc., in Bethel said he's no fan of the high oil prices. His oil dealership, he said, makes more money when prices are lower.

"We have a set margin, and when prices are lower, we sell more oil," he said. "I think some fat cat is getting rich somewhere, but not around here."

As for customer reaction to the price increase, Brooks said, "Not many people are screaming at this stage. It's the beginning of the season. I don't think the prices will be extreme -- just high."

Does he have any advice for people worried about paying more for oil? "Put on an extra blanket, or sleep with the dog, I guess," he said.

Watch that chimney

With dry firewood in short supply, more people will likely turn to using green wood. That, unfortunately, may mean more calls for local fire departments.

Creosote builds up more quickly inside chimneys when green wood is burned, creating ideal conditions for a chimney fire.

Tink Conkright, Newry's fire chief, recommends people get a hot fire going if they're going to use green wood. "Don't let it smolder. That's when you get creosote," he said.

He also said that when the oil prices are higher, there are more people burning wood who haven't for a while.

They are advised to make sure their chimneys are clean. "And by all means get a smoke detector," Conkright said.

Woodburners in general should also make sure their chimneys are clean -- and stay clean, he said.

Bowling

my back on the floor. And there I lay," she said.

Bachelder also recalls a ball release that stopped her so short her chewing gum flew out of her mouth.

But that incident pales beside one that happened to another gang member.

She asked that she not be identified, because otherwise "everyone will start calling me," she said.

As she let the ball fly, her upper set of dentures fell out, and bounced down the lane behind the ball.

"She's lucky they didn't break," said Bachelder.

Fewer strikes

The other members bowling last week were Olive Anderson (age 79), Sylvia Wight (75) and Bea Lowell (70).

Wight returned to the lanes recently after recovering from a leg fracture. The injury put a crimp in her technique, requiring her to release the ball higher above the floor than before.

"I got a strike last week, but they come fewer and farther between," she said.

The hindrance has had no effect on her enthusiasm, however. "It's fun to get out," she said.

The gang has been known to bring along a new face now and then, too.

"I brought my mother a few years ago," said Clark. "She was 81, and had never bowled. She bowled an 83, and beat me."

The bowlers have also had their share of adventures on the road to and from the bowling alley.

The axle on Clark's car broke on one trip. "The wheels were rolling down the street, and I was running after them," she said.

And Bachelder remembers following a truck with a ladder. "The ladder fell off the truck, and came sliding down the road at me," she said.

But neither broken axles nor flying ladders -- nor snow -- can keep the bowling gang from their weekly outing. "I'd go if there was 50 feet of snow," said Bachelder.

FINNISH AMERICAN HERITAGE SOCIETY

At the Nov. 17 meeting of the Finnish American Heritage Society of Maine, a mixed media presentation will be given by Edward Savoie of Quincy, Mass. The program will present diverse aspects of Finnish topics, including the language, music, and the Internet.

It will be held at the Finnish American Heritage Center on Maple Street in West Paris, following a 2 p.m. meeting.

All interested persons are welcome to any of the society's meetings and events. For information about the society, call 743-6682 or 583-6160.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

Jeri Greenwell, Past National Vice President, Eastern Division, American Legion Auxiliary was a guest when Jackson-Silver Unit met on Nov. 7. Mrs. Greenwell is now the National Children and Youth Committee chairman.

The Hunters Breakfast on Nov. 2 was reported to have been a success, even though many organizations were having breakfasts. The field service orientation held on the same day was poorly attended.

On Wednesday, Nov. 13, the Bethel Senior Citizens will have their meeting, with the noon meal prepared and served by the Jackson-Silver Auxiliary. Another noon meal will be served on Saturday, Nov. 16, to the Oxford County Retired Teachers, following their meeting.

Orders are still being taken for light bulbs which will decorate the Memorial Christmas trees on the Legion grounds. The cost is $2 per bulb and they can be to honor any veteran or can be in memory of any veteran. One may also honor a present Auxiliary member or the memory of one. The trees will be lit at the Legion and Auxiliary meeting on Dec. 5 at which time the department president and a number of other department officers will be present. Evanna Davis is in charge of this project, but any other member would be more than happy to assist. Evanna is already purchasing gifts for the veteran patients at Ledgeview Nursing Home and will use some of the money realized from the project for that purpose. Donations to the Togus and Western Maine Veterans Home gift shops have also been made in anticipation of these funds.

A donation has also been voted for the Bethel Rotary's Christmas For Children project.

The Legion and Auxiliary also plan their own Family Christmas Party for Dec. 12. Members are invited to come and bring their families, enjoy the 6 p.m. meal and the entertainment and gifts that follow. It is asked that those planning to attend let the Auxiliary know so that they can plan the food and how many gifts to buy for each age group. Please call 875-2375 or one of the current officers.

Another November project is a Junior Leadership Workshop on Saturday, Nov. 23, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Lunch will be served at noon. All Auxiliary Units in surrounding towns with Junior members are urged to bring them to this workshop which will inform them about Auxiliary programs, how to carry them out, how to conduct a meeting, etc. Again, it would be most helpful to know how many plan to attend. Please call the above number or Evanna Davis.

With U.S. Savings Bonds, the more you give, the more you receive.

Every day, we pass a little of ourselves on to the next generation. How to till hardened soil, what to plant, why we fertilize, when to harvest. The knowledge that we give stays with them forever.

Giving U.S. Savings Bonds also passes an important lesson on to the future generation. Bonds can teach our children how to save, how interest grows and how a small investment can help make their dreams come true.

Buying U.S. Savings Bonds contributes to a solid and secure America for generations to come. What a great way for you to say, "I believe in your future!"

Bonds are as easy to buy as they are to give. Buy them at half their face value through your local bank.

So share the tradition of U.S. Savings Bonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lichtenstein, son Ryan and Ryan's friend Lance of South Portland, visited Ranald and Sarah Stevens over the weekend.

Also, Ranald's sister, Helen Marston, son James Swan, and Roy and Louise Sills of Zephyrhills, Fla., returned home after spending the week with Ranald and Sarah.

It was my pleasure to join Barbara Lucas on a drive to North Anson where we visited her daughter, Kim Viemeve, and family. Kim's daughter Susan and several family friends joined us for lunch and conversation, as well as Kim's delicious buffet.

Nine members of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Judith Grover Tent 17, went to South Paris Monday night for a joint inspection with Tent 8, Norway and Tent 19, East Stoneham. A lovely supper was held before the meeting and Emogene Staples was honored on her 98th birthday and for 75 years of belonging to the Daughters. She received greetings from the national past president and present national president of the DUV. She was very surprised.

A very large turnout was a welcome sight on election day.

The Bryant Pond hour on Cable TV Channel IV is on Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. and Thursdays at 7 p.m. The family night supper, story and musical program held in the Awana Room at the Baptist Church on Sunday was very well attended. The first rehearsal for a children's Christmas musical, "A Mouse's Tale," will be held during morning worship service at 10:30 a.m., starting Nov. 17 at the Bryant Pond Baptist Church. All area children are invited to participate. Call Beth Hoover for more information at 665-2171. Each Thursday at 6 p.m. until 7:15 is a Good News Club for all school-age children and young people.

Evelyn Bean recently attended the Rev. Donald M. Hinkley's celebration of his 50th year in the ministry at the Oakland Universalist Church. He is a former minister of the Bryant Pond Universalist Church.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday for a Veterans Day program with 20 members present. Harry Boyer and Loretta Hall visited. The program started with the opening thought; song by all; reading about the flag by Olive Risko; Russell Yates and Peggy Blake did a skit; Harry Boyer sang; closing thought; and closing song. Next meeting will be Nov. 18. Bring items for Thanksgiving basket.

Sympathy to the family of Elsie Taylor.

The Woodstock Extension Group will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 20, at the Town Annex at 10:30 a.m. Program will be on angels. Bring a brown bag lunch.

Luvie Sweetser, 97 years young, of Ledgeview Nursing Home, and oldest citizen of Woodstock, will be honored by her family and friends on Saturday, Nov. 30 from 10:30 a.m. until noon, at Ledgeview. Luvie holds the elder's cane and spent her life in Bryant Pond. She had four children, was active in her church and a helper of the community. She loves music and has a sweet smile we all love. Her sparkling blue eyes recognize most of her loved ones. There will be refreshments for the guests. Please stop by and share her joy, meet old friends and her family. No gifts, please, though cards and flowers are welcomed.

The Historical Society has many exciting and interesting programs planned for this year. Meetings are planned for the second Saturday of each month at 7 p.m. Plan to attend. Mary Billings, trustee, has been filling out some questionnaires from state historical organizations. The society has appointed a committee to find some way of honoring the late Ruby Emery. Many people have donated money to the society in her memory.

The Snow Valley Sno-Goers are holding a snowmobile club meeting at the fire station on Saturday, Nov. 16, at 7 p.m. Those interested are invited to attend.

The Girl Scout and Brownie troops are holding a food drive of non-perishable food items. Food will be collected for several weeks and will be given to local food pantries for distribution. Collection boxes are located at the library, AES, Mills' Market and Dave's store. For more information or for pickup of items, contact Sue Mills at 392-4691 or Cindy Gammon at 392-2051.

The Andover firefighters responded to a fire, caused by an overheated wood stove, at a camp on the South Arm Road on Thursday. The owner of the camp, a Saco resident, was out hunting with friends.

As of Saturday night, Mills' Market had tallied 20 deer and 28 bear tagged thus far this hunting season.

Get well wishes to Lester White, a patient following heart surgery last week in a Lewiston hospital.

Beulah sends along a greeting to B.B. this week. She is comfortable and resting in her new surroundings, anxiously awaiting the blessed event. She'll contact you soon!

Sympathy is extended to the Dick Cronin family for the death of his mother, Mrs. Alexina Cronin. Mrs. Cronin was 92 years old. She resided at the Norway Convalescent Home and had been an Andover resident for many years.

A very large cat was lost from the Pine Street area last weekend. The male, long-haired cat is black with tiger markings on his legs and face. He has a white bib and answers to the name of Jesse. If you have any information regarding this lost neighbor, please contact Linda at 392-2141.

East Stoneham

Phyllis Adams is at home now after being away to Massachusetts for a few days.

Jennie Adams fell recently and is now in the Norway Convalescent Home. I bet she would like to get cards from her friends.

Lois Niemi attended the Hamlin Pythian Sisters in Oxford on Nov. 5. There were seven members present. Several were absent on account of illness.

Two members of the DUV Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19 Stoneham joined with the Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent 8 and Judith Grover Tent 17 Bryant Pond at the V.F.W. Hall in South Paris for a delicious supper and inspection meeting on Monday, Nov. 4.

Edith Pulkkinen opened the meeting at 7:45 p.m. General Orders were read, secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Gifts of appreciation were given to the Dept. President Sally Sawyer and Dept. Inspector Alice Hoyt.

We were honored at this gathering to have a 75-year member, Emogene Staples, who also just had her 98th birthday. Cards and gifts were presented to her from her friends, for which she was most thankful. (She also makes the most delicious homemade rolls!) I believe there were about 20 of us there at the annual inspection meeting, which was hosted by the Norway Tent.

Again, Phyllis Adams and myself were ballot clerks during the election this year at the Stoneham Fire Station meeting room. We had a real good turnout of voters, which is good. I believe there were 203 registered voters and 153 actually voted in this election. It was a busy and interesting day. Thanks again to Ralph and Harriett Brown for sharing a delicious pizza and Albert Nelson Sr. for the ice-cream bars. You made our day!

How many people in town have gotten a deer? There have been six tagged at the local store here as of today, Nov. 6. One was weighed in as being a 248 pound buck. George Allen was one of the lucky hunters from town, and Hazel Pakkonen was a lucky one in getting a nice deer. It's a bit more than luck, though, isn't it. One has to have the knowledge of how, when and where, also a good aim. There are many more deer and moose nowadays, so this is a way to thin them out and keep them all healthy.

Last week, Esther Davis and her sisters and some friends got together to celebrate the 80th birthday of Esther's sister Marion Whittemore. Those attending were Marion Whittemore, Livermore Falls; Emily Pike, South Livermore; Martha Hines, Jay; Esther Wooten, New Hampshire; Joyce Wyatt, South Carolina; Jackie Kennaugh, Hebron; Pat Tibbetts, Norway; and Mansfield and Georgia Packard, Andrews House South Paris. They all went to Shoreland's for lunch and had a wonderful time visiting.

Persons from our area celebrating November birthdays are: Erlon Hadley Sr., Kris Miclon, Amanda Miclon, Tim Poland, Joan Poland, Perry Ryerson, Anna Ryerson, Sandra Monzo, Caesar Morgan, Diana Poland, Lorena Wilson, Faith Verrill, Jerold Verrill, Dale Hadley, Don Mason Sr., Danny Brown, Ozzie Hart, Isabel Brown, Margery Gleason, Anne Dunham, Priscilla Staley and Randy Wilday.

'Happy anniversary wishes go out to Herbert and Eleanor Ryerson, Vince and Beverly Stevens and Don and Virginia Mason. Congratulations to all of you.

Congratulations to the Telstar High Field Hockey team for winning the Western Maine Class C Championship on Saturday. Brandy Poland's picture is on the front page of the Citizen, congratulating a team member. Brandy is the team's manager.

Yesterday, Tommy Poland and I spent a while visiting Buster and Claribel in their new trailer. We delivered a gift certificate from the Willing Workers and also brought gifts from Tommy and me, and a card with money from Esther Davis and Vera Buck. We had an enjoyable time talking politics and other important issues! Rosalie Poland was also there spending some time. We'll try to do it again real soon.

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society reports that a committee has been organized to plan a means of honoring the late Ruby Emery. Many people donated money to the society in her memory. This year, Helvi Cary is president and Larry Billings is curator. Annella Burnham is chairman of the board of trustees. The society hopes you have a memorable Thanksgiving.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that a recession is a period when we have to go without things our grandparents never heard of."

by Colista Morgan

"I sense a sacred hush about the hills. A tender yearning not to be denied. Summer's gone and winter's yet to come. This interlude between is mine alone."

From now to Thanksgiving, Maine's weather should be fine. It's never monotonous, always has variety, and is healthful. We complain, but we have never been picked up by a tornado and deposited where it would take a week to walk home. In some states that is not out of the ordinary. No danger of being caught in a devastating flood and deposited in mid-ocean; we are not deprived of water by prolonged drought, and as kids say, we won't be all shook up, we are quite sure, by earthquakes. So our weather can't be half as bad as we complain.

I found nothing to complain about a while ago, as I rustled up the spring road and into the woods among the massive beeches, majestic oaks, and birches white and slim. They brought to mind pillared cathedral aisles so vast; trees making Gothic arches with their branches interlaced.

Along these paths not long ago, birds sang, but now trees stand stripped and bare. It was a day just meant for roaming; carpets of leaves upon the ground and the air warm and pleasant. There was no wind and the forest lay in calm silence. I wandered among the trees fascinated by fungi formations and ferns still green. I crossed a knoll and down toward the ledges. Here it was rich in earth scents. My feet sank into the plush moss as I advanced into the silent depth. I paused by a stump furry with moss and molding away.

Autumn died beautifully, with a shiver of quaking aspens and perfect days falling down upon us. I could look down upon the pond and over the valley and the river. The ledge was crumbling along the outer edge, eaten away deeply by years of frost and rain. I sat for some time watching the water catching the sun and casting it back in a shimmering blaze. Cars and trucks and a school bus rumbled by.

In the distance the curving waves of ridges dragged across the landscape with furrows of the valleys between. I lingered a while then decided to go down a ridge between the ledges to the road rather than go back through the woods. As I started, the jays screamed, "No...can't" so it seemed to me. While clearly from across the pond, twice repeated, came, "Who? Who, oo, who?" I reached the road then on toward home. Shortly the sun slipped down into the pond; its afterglow like a golden bloom upon the still waters.

Rena Curtis had several of her children and their families at her home for the weekend.

The little Halloween "critters" came during the evening to trick or treat. All were polite and friendly. It was a joy to see them .

I had several robins on my lawn, just before the snow. I was confused. Was it April or November? At the farm there have been 11 geese feasting on the grass at my house. I have ducks in the pond with ice near the shore.

On Sunday we had a nice family time. David, Sally, Mary and a friend, Robert and Jennie, Ann and I were there for dinner and several others visited during the day.

The "Den" is open and the bears are out. The Wight bears, that is. Brad, Brenda and family are out on an adventure of running a store at the Newry corner. For now, there is gas, some canned goods and coffee, etc. We all wish them the best of luck on their enterprise. Go for it "Bears."

Lee Swan was the lucky winner in the Newry Church Ladies Circle's quilt drawing.

The Windy Valley Sno-Mobile Club met Tuesday, Nov. 5 with President Owen Wight opening the meeting. Secretary Sylvia Harrington read the notes of the last meeting and took notes during the evening. Treasurer Bob Lowell brought the finances up to date. The trails committee reported on the new bridge being built and the members voted on naming it the Bear River Bridge. Safety Director Eric Wight had no accidents to report. A long discussion followed on the subject of trails. The next meeting will be Dec. 3 at 7 p.m. at the Grange Hall, with a Christmas Party for the program.

Bowling at the Oxford Lanes one day last week were members of the Newry Bowling Gang, Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Bea Lowell, Sylvia Wight and Olive Anderson. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on the singles with one string of 105 and she was also high on the triples, lacking only six pins to make 300. She had seven spares, Karlene had three, Bea had three spares and Gil had one. Of the righties, Bea was high on both the triples and singles.

The winner this week of the Greenstock fundraiser was Larry Smith of Bethel.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary held its annual Christmas Craft Fair on Saturday. Those from the auxiliary helping with the fair were Veronica Penley, Sally Melville, Denise Swan, Cheryl Young, Anita Hakala, Barbara Dunham, Maggie Ring and Mary Stone. I was there, but the only way I helped was to buy a few things. There may be others helping that I've forgotten, in fact I just thought of one, Charlotte Kimball. I don't know how successful it was, especially since Crescent Park held a fair on the same day, but it was fun.

I was in Norway on Thursday for my annual check-up and took Ann Fitzmorris to visit her father at the Veterans' Home. I had gone with her one other day this week and did some shopping while she visited. I picked the day the K.F.C. opened in South Paris, got caught in heavy traffic and since it was getting dark, made a wrong turn somewhere and promptly got lost. I never thought I could get lost in Norway, but I was wrong. Anyhow, I was a half hour late picking up Ann, and when I did find the place it was coming in on the opposite direction from where I thought I was. Such is my life!

Our two convalescents, my son Ralph Mills and Andy's aunt Norma, are doing well. Ralph gets his "plumbing" unhooked this Saturday and Norma is coming along slowly, but considering she's 83, she's doing very well. She said she got an anniversary ring from her husband, Fritz Peterson. They were married 25 years ago this month.

I'll sort of sneak it in, since we haven't made any formal announcement, that Andy gave me an engagement ring this month, or rather last month. It is November already. I keep forgetting!

The water level in the pond has been on a yo-yo most of the past two seasons. A few ducks and loons still seem to enjoy it.

Renovations are still ongoing at the former summer home of Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Rich.

Mrs. Betty Woronzoff has sold her home, the former Hapgood place, and has moved to North Carolina. Mrs. Elizabeth Lapham drove her to the airport one day this week.

Another day, Buzzie and Mrs. Gladys Grenier were in Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeremy Head hosted a Halloween masquerade party Saturday evening at their home here. Their holiday decorations attracted much attention in spite of high winds.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Salway were in Portland last Saturday to attend the State semi-finals boys' high school soccer play-offs between the Waynflete team and Monmouth Academy who finally won two to one in double overtime.

Hi! I know, I know, no Trivia last week. Didn't have a chance to find any good facts.

Well, this November seems to be a repeat of last year -- warm weather and lots of rain.

We received a phone call from Jerry's father on Saturday with reports of bad flooding on the Battenkill River in Elizabethtown, N.Y. Jerry had to go to estimate the damages at his parents' gift shop.

Trivia: Last November, two Upton residents experienced flooding in the Grafton Flats when they found themselves up to their car's windows in water. It was a very frightening experience for them. Let's hope the rain stops or turns to snow soon.

The Upton Ladies Aid Hunters Supper, buffet style, is on for Nov. 23 at 5 p.m. at the Ladies Aid Building. Always great food and great company!

Trees and power lines were downed due to strong winds on Saturday. Sunday brought sunshine, but continued winds.

With Thanksgiving around the corner, let's not forget what we are thankful for. Sit down with your family and include your thanks before the big meal. I'm thankful for my family of course, nice neighbors, my health, my friends, Upton's clean air and beautiful sunsets; but mostly I'm thankful when my car starts on those frigid winter mornings. Those days are coming, unfortunately.

Howdy friends! This is the day that we are supposed to go to the polls and vote for the candidate of our choice. As I've listened to the candidates, I've found it hard to decide which ones are the most likely to remember that they are elected to help the people and not just vote to help themselves. I, for one, will be glad when this day is over and much of the mud throwing stops.

Marcia Baxter was a visitor at the Lovejoy home on Wednesday. Marcia lives in Oxford and works at the Super Shop 'n Save.

Priscilla Brett from North Paris also called on the Lovejoys, as have various members of their family. Since their daughter Hope is a senior at SAD17, the Lovejoys attended the "Jobs for Maine Graduates Initiation Installation," which was held recently.

ANDOVER ELEMENTARY SCHOOL WANTS BOX TOPS

Andover Elementary School is participating in a General Mills educational program entitled "Big G Box Tops for Education."

The school's goal is 1,000 box tops from General Mills cereals such as Cheerios and Wheaties. The school will receive 15 cents for each qualifying box top. Proceeds will be used to purchase computer software.

Box tops may be dropped off at the school or call Patty Brown at 392-4292 for pickup arrangements. The fundraiser will continue until March 31, 1997.

POURING THE METAL--Gould Academy sculpture instructor Lauren Head assists student Chris McKnight to pour molten aluminum into a styrofoam pattern cast in sand. The pattern is evaporated by the intense heat of the aluminum, leaving the metal to solidify in the sand. Head's class has spent time this fall using a wide range of processes and materials to create sculpture.

NOTES FROM

Adult Education

An Open House will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 4, at the University of Maine ITV Site at Telstar High School. This will be an opportunity for area residents to learn more about college and post-graduate opportunities available through distance learning.

The University of Maine course guides for second semester will be available. The Adult Education office currently does have a preliminary listing of second semester offerings. The Open House will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and will feature refreshments and a door prize.

A master of business administration over ITV is currently under consideration for a fall 1997 starting date. The Education Network of Maine is negotiating with an out-of-state institution for delivery of this much requested program. Anyone interested is asked to contact the Adult Education office for more details.

Adult Guidance services are back in full swing at the Adult Learning Center under the direction of Merrill Bittner. Ms. Bittner is back from a sabbatical year at the University of Southern Maine. The new version of CHOICES CT, a comprehensive career guidance program with extensive information on careers, colleges, and financial aid options has been loaded on the computers at the Adult Learning Center. In addition, Distance Learn, a data base of many college and graduate level courses available from throughout the U.S., is available on the Adult Learning Center machines. For appointments with Ms. Bittner, call the Learning Center at 824-3320.

The Adult Education program has received notification of a successful grant proposal for the upgrade of the computer lab and provision of Internet for adult learner access at the Learning Center. Improvements are set to take place in December.

CPS SPELLING BEE

On Wednesday, Nov. 6, Crescent Park hosted its first annual Spelling Bee. Done in the tradition of old-fashioned spelling bees, each grade three to five classroom sent a single representative to the competition. This student was chosen as a result of a "spell off" in each room. With most of the school in attendance, these students took the stage and engaged in the spelling competition. Representatives from each classroom were: Errol Andrews, Natasha Vascik, Justin McEnany, Jessica Parker, John Mahar, Bill Marshall, Precious Gaudreau, Amanda Johnson and Casey Fleet.

Bill Marshall, from Jolene Shimamura's fourth-grade class, outdistanced all other competitors to receive the honor of First Quarter Spelling Bee Champion at the Crescent Park School. His name will be added to a plaque in the trophy case at the end of this school year.

Many thanks to all who helped on and supported the bottle drive sponsored by our two fifth grades. We made a little over $200. We are well on our way to earning money for our Boston trip next spring.

Now we are asking staff, students and friends to bring returnable bottles and cans to school between now and Dec. 13. All profits from this endeavor will go to Christmas for Kids and will be used locally. Our second-grade teacher, Mrs. Terry Merrill, is heading up this project and she will arrange to pick up any if you can't drop them off at school. Children may bring small amounts each day with them when they come to school. Give us a call if you have any questions.

Mark your calendar for Tuesday, Nov. 19. That is the date of our next Parent Volunteer meeting. See you at 6:30 p.m. in the library.

It's hard to believe that the first ranking period is over already. Each class has begun its work for the second quarter. The first-graders are learning all about Pilgrims and Thanksgiving. The kindergarteners and the first-graders will be sharing a Thanksgiving feast on Thursday, Nov. 21.

Our second-grade teacher, Mrs. Loper, is glad to be back in school after a bout with pneumonia. Many thanks to her hard-working substitute, Mrs. Kathy Richardson. The second- and third-graders are working very hard in their combined writing groups and appreciate the help of their parent volunteers. They are setting an excellent example for the older boys and girls. The third-graders are also doing great work with their sixth-grade buddies.

Mr. Litchfield's fourth-graders are working with magnets and electricity in science, and are learning about different kinds of fishing off the coast of Maine in social studies.

Our two fifth grades are working on fractions in math and are also working on mastering their multiplication facts. In reading we are enjoying the works of Sid Fleischman. He presents a neat combination of humor and seriousness and can teach us lessons that we can apply in real life.

My class is currently writing letters to men and women in the service who can't be home for Christmas. We hope to receive replies in January. Mr. Burke is reading Roald Dahl's "Matilda" to his class and those who have seen the movie are comparing the differences.

The sixth-graders are experimenting with energy in science and learning division with decimals in math. They are involved in an early civilization unit in social studies. This week one spelling assignment was to define accept and except and to write two sentences using them.

From now until Christmas will be a busy time. See you next week!

BLOOD DRIVE AT GOULD

Gould Academy will host a blood drive on Tuesday, Nov. 19, from noon to 5 p.m. in the Bingham Gymnasium.

To meet the need for blood in central and northern New England, the American Red Cross must receive nearly 330,000 donations yearly. Because each unit of donated blood is separated into three components -- red cells, plasma and platelets -- a single donation can help to save as many as three lives. The goal for the Bethel community blood drive is 85 pints of blood.

Donors must be 18 years or over (17 with a signed American Red Cross parental/guardian consent form), in general good health, and weigh at least 110 pounds. Although walk-in donors are welcome, appointments are preferred and can be made by calling Pat Donovan or Debbie Gilbert at 824-7733.

Bethel Selectmen's Meetings

On weeks in which the Bethel selectmen meet (usually the weeks of the first and third Mondays in the month) the meetings will be televised on Channel IV. The broadcasts will normally be at 7 p.m. on Friday, but schedule modifications will occasionally be necessary, so please check the on-air calendar for up-to-date information.

Broadcast of the selectmen's meeting is a cooperative effort of Channel IV and The Bethel Citizen.

Matters of Health

My husband and I want to start a family soon, and I've heard that taking folic acid now will reduce my chances of having a baby with birth defects. Is this true? How do I get it? What is it?

Recent studies have shown that women who take folic acid, a form of vitamin B, during the month before they get pregnant or in the early weeks of pregnancy, can reduce their risk of having a baby with severe birth defects of the brain and spinal cord by 50 to 70 percent. These birth defects, known as "neural tube" defects, include spina bifida, in which the backbone of the developing fetus fails to close completely.

Given these findings, the U.S. Public Health Service now recommends that all women of child-bearing age (ages 15 to 45) who are capable of becoming pregnant receive about 400 micrograms (.4 milligrams) of the vitamin each day. The reason that it is so important for women to begin taking folic acid at least one month before conception and during the first month of pregnancy is that it is in the first weeks of development that neural tube defects typically develop.

Folic acid is most commonly found in green leafy vegetables, beans, asparagus, citrus fruits, whole grain foods and liver. The average diet provides about 200 micrograms (.2 milligrtams) of folic acid a day, half of what is needed to reduce the risk of birth defects. Dietary folic acid can be increased significantly by eating two to four servings of fruit, three to five servings of vegetables, or six to 11 servings of grain products per day. However, because most people find it difficult to get such portions daily, your physician will most likely recommend or prescribe a multivitamin supplement that you can take once a day, starting a month before conception.

"Folic acid is essential to normal development, and adequate levels of this essential vitamin can protect your unborn baby against neural tube defects. However, the exact mechanism of this protective effect is unknown," explains Robert Weiss, MD, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Boston University Medical Center. Spina bifida, which literally means "open spine," is one of the most devastating forms of these defects. It occurs in one of every 2,000 live births a year. In a fetus that is developing normally, the backbone normally closes by the 29th day after conception has occured. In spina bifida, it does not fully close.

Though researchers don't know the exact cause of spina bifida, they believe that genetics and certain environmental factors, such as nutritional deficiency and drugs, may play an important role. Still, what continues to baffle researchers is that, despite some form of a genetic link, 90 to 95 percent of babies born with spina bifida and other neural tube defects have no family history of the disease.

Spina bifida can often be detected before birth using a blood test called the alpha fetoprotein (AFP) screening test. This test, which detects pregnancies at a higher than average risk of spina bifida and other neural tube defects, is performed during the fourth month of pregnancy. Should a woman have a high AFP blood test, her physician would then schedule a detailed and highly accurate ultrasound examination to detect any abnormalities of the fetal spine.

Physicians now agree that taking folic acid early -- before spina bifida and other neural tube defects occur -- is the best form of prevention. Given the information, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control has even issued an interim recommendation that women who have had babies with neural tube defects consult their physicians before attempting to conceive again so that they can begin to take four milligrams of folic acid from the time they plan to become pregnant through the first three months of pregnancy.

Before you begin taking any vitamins, you may want to consult with your primary care physician or obstetrician, who can explain the measures that you should take in preparing for pregnancy, including dietary and vitamin recommendations. Obviously, maintaining a proper diet, one that is high in folic acid, is just one of the components of primary care measures for women who are planning to become pregnant.

Obituaries

ROSWELL F. ALLEN

Roswell F. Allen, 60, of Oxford, died Friday, Nov. 8, 1996, at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

Born at Lovell on June 9, 1936, son of Bernard and Hazel Hicks Allen, he was a graduate of Fryeburg Academy.

Mr. Allen was retired from the U.S. Army. After his retirement he worked as a tractor-trailer driver on long hauls.

He was a member of the Oxford Lodge, AF & AM and the American Legion.

He was married to the former Kellie McAllister on Dec. 5, 1987.

Survivors include his wife of Oxford; one stepson, Darren Weymouth of Oxford; two daughters, Cathy Morgan and Deborah Poland, both of West Paris; his mother of Bridgton; one brother, Lawrence of Massachusetts; and five grandchildren. He was predeceased by his father and two brothers, Earland and Clyde.

There were no services. Interment will be at Gracelawn Memorial Park, Auburn, at a later date. Donations in Mr. Allen's memory may be sent to the American Heart Association, Maine Affiliate, Inc., Box 346, Augusta, ME 04330.

RENA M. POWERS

Rena May (Nowlin) Powers, 71, of Hebron, formerly of Newry, died Friday, Nov. 8, 1996, at her daughter's home. She was born in Newry, a daughter of the late John and Mina (O'Leary) Nowlin, and attended the Lower Sunday River School.

Mrs. Powers had resided in Newry the greater part of her life. She married Bernard Powers on May 4, 1939, and together they operated the Lone Wolf Garage in Newry for nearly a half century. She then drove a school bus for SAD44 for 13 years.

She is survived by two daughters: Christine McLaughlin, with whom she made her home, of Hrbron and Kathleen Paton of Tulsa, Okla.; one son, Lawrence of Hebron; five sisters: Eva Lane and Florence Morgan, both of Bethel, Lottie Knowles of Dixfield, Grace Bartlett of Bridgton and Barbara Casey of Mexico; three brothers: John M. of Newry, Kenneth and Clyde, both of Harrison; six grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, Nov. 16 at 2 p.m. at the Newry Community Church. Interment will be in the Powers Cemetery, Newry. Those who wish may make contributions in her memory to the Newry Community Church, c/o Rodney Hanscom, Middle Intervale Road, Bethel, ME 04217.

ALEXINA LEONIA CRONIN

Mrs. Alexina Leonia Cronin, R.N., 92, died Saturday, Nov. 9, 1996, at the Norway Convalescent Nursing Home. She had resided in Andover and was a lifelong resident of the area.

She was born in Rumford on July 10, 1904, the daughter of Philip and Marie (Gosselin) Baker.

A high school graduate, she attended schools in Rumford and received her Registered Nurse's degree from Chelsea, Mass., Nursing School and later worked as an R.N. at the Chelsea Soldiers Home. She was married in Saugus, Mass., on Aug. 25, 1940, to the late Daniel Cronin, who died in Togus on May 13, 1955.

She was a communicant of St. Athanasius-St. John Church in Rumford.

Survivors include a son, Joseph R. and his wife Martha Cronin of Andover; a sister, Mrs. Aime (Arietta) Begin of Manchester, Conn.; two granddaughters, Mrs. Arthur (Cathy) Godwin and Kelly Cronin, both of Andover; and one great-grandson, Colton Godwin of Andover.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Nov. 12, at Meader & Son Funeral Home, Rumford, with Fr. Alfred Jacques officiating. Interment was in St. John Cemetery, Rumford. Those who desire, please contribute in her memory to St. Athanasius-St. John Church Building Fund, 126 Maine Avenue, Rumford, ME 04276.

VIOLA M. JAMES

Mrs. Viola Marie James, 95, died Saturday, Nov. 9, 1996, at Ledgeview Nursing Home, West Paris, where she had made her residence the past several years. She was formerly of Island Falls.

She was born at Eagle Lake on Dec. 9, 1900, the daughter of Joseph and Amanda (Gagnon) Albert. She had attended schools in Winterville and then hairdressing school in Boston. She married Merton James in Princeton and in 1950 he died there.

Survivors include three sons, Merton Jr. of Billerica, Mass., Francis C. of Island Falls and Brooksville, Fla., and Richard G. of Locke Mills; a stepson, Virgil James of Portland; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Dolly Boynton of Houlton; a sister, Mrs. Verna Little of Oregon; 17 grandchildren; and 28 great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by a son, Carl B. James and a grandson, John James.

Graveside services will be held at the family's convenience at a later date. Those who desire, please contribute to the Green Valley Association for Handicapped Adults, Island Falls, ME 04747, in her memory.

Mr. & Mrs. Gary Meisner

Janet Parent Hutchins, daughter of Mrs. Jasmine Parent and the late Lionel Parent of Mexico, and Gary R. Meisner, son of Orville and Barbara Meisner of East Andover, were married in an outdoor ceremony on Saturday, July 27, 1996 at the groom's parents' home in East Andover.

The bride wore a T-length white brocade gown and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was escorted to the alter by her son, Justin L. Hutchins.

Maid of honor was Jennifer R. Hutchins of Oakland, daughter of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Tammy Dyment, Miss Carrie Dyment and Miss Tracy Dyment, nieces of the groom.

The best man was Phil Mills of Rumford, nephew of the bride, and ushers were Ryan Parent and Drew Parent.

A reception was held at the Andover Town Hall. The couple then went to Grand Manan Island in New Brunswick for a honeymoon.

The bride attended the University of Maine at Orono and has a paralegal certificate. She is employed as an office manager at the Hamilton Company in Augusta.

The groom graduated from the University of Maine in Augusta with a degree in accounting and business. He is currently working as a technician at SCI Systems in Augusta.

Card of Thanks

I want to express my thanks to all of you who took the time to attend the Stan Clark Family Show on November 2. I am extremely thankful to my friends and my "work" family, and for all the encouragement and love. Special thanks to Lloyd and Marion for selling tickets, also to the Bethel Music Store, to Jade Salon for giving me my hair, to Josh and Mike Stubbs for "letting them be loud", to Jim Gauthier for the newspaper photos, and to Aubrey.

From the heart, Jewel Clark
